A Prayer for Back to School

Bells are ringing, busses are bringing, girls and boys, teens and tweens, back to rooms prepared by those who choose to teach and care and lead and plead for lives that carry with them so much more than books, notebooks, crayons, and tissue. These children, made by God are often carrying issue after issue.

Teachers, admin., coaches, and then all the other lives that will impact this fragile, forming, fraternity of learners are our unseen and unrecognized cultural heroes, offering their lives for the sakes of the generations that are coming.

Gen Z, Gen Alpha, they are digital, they speak computer, they speak Ai, they are virtually connected all over the world. Yet, they are isolated, lonely, socially awkward, and desperate for true connections, so the experts say.

We lived with the threat of nuclear war and learned to duck under our desk (like that would do any good). They pass through metal detectors and have to use clear backpacks and live under the threat of actual shootings and have learned to lock the door and turn off the lights and cower in the dark corners of the room. Will that do any good?

We came from nuclear families. What sort of families do they come from? Do they have a meal if it is not served at school? Do they have a safe and warm bed? Is there peace in their home? Is there warmth in their home? Is there an adult in their home?

Lord, the experts call this the "lost generation" or the "absent generation" or the "wandering generation." Let us see them. Let us love them. Let us attach to them. Let us bless the little children and "forbid them not to come unto thee." Give us your heart, your eyes, your compassion, your wisdom, your sacrificial love. Let us not lose this generation but affix them to you. Bless our children and those who lead them. May they have peace, safety, security, love, and a place of rest when they enter the doors of their school. May those who lead and care for them have supernatural capacities to lead them well.

*Through Jesus we ask these things,
Amen*
